

SSI In Nevada

People in financial need who are age 65 or older or people of any age who are blind or have a disability (including children) may be eligible for monthly cash payments from the federal government. The payments are called Supplemental Security Income (SSI).

You may be eligible for SSI payments if you have little or no income, and if the value of the things you own is less than $2,000 if you are single, or $3,000 if you are married. We do not count the value of your home. We usually do not count the value of your car. We may not count certain other assets. Call us for more information.

Also, you must live in the U.S. or the Northern Mariana Islands and be in one of the following groups:

- U.S. citizens or nationals;
- certain American Indians;
- lawful permanent residents with 40 work credits;
- certain noncitizens with a military service connection, and their spouses or unmarried dependent children;
- certain noncitizens lawfully residing in the U.S. who are blind or disabled, or who were receiving SSI on August 22, 1996; or
- certain Amerasian immigrants, Cuban/Haitian entrants, refugees, asylees or people whose deportation or removal has been withheld and who may be eligible for seven years after the date their immigration status was granted.

For more information about noncitizen eligibility requirements, ask for the factsheet, Supplemental Security Income for Noncitizens (Publication No. 05-11051).

Also, you must apply for any other money benefits for which you may be eligible.

Even though the Social Security Administration runs the program, SSI is not the same as Social Security. Money for SSI payments comes from the general fund of the U.S. Treasury, not the Social Security trust funds.

In many cases, the state of Nevada adds money to the federal payment. For the convenience of SSI recipients, the state of Nevada and the federal government have agreed to include the amount in the federal payment. Therefore, SSI recipients receive one U.S. government payment during the first week of each month with federal and state money included.

The back of this factsheet has a table showing the year 2003 maximum monthly payment amounts for SSI recipients in different living arrangements.

Medical Assistance

If you receive SSI payments, you also are eligible for medical assistance (Medicaid). However, you must apply for Medicaid at your local welfare office.

Food Stamps

When you receive SSI, you also may be eligible for food stamps. Food stamps can help you buy more food without spending more money. Social Security doesn't decide if you can get food stamps. However, people who live in a household where everyone is applying for or receiving SSI may apply for food stamps at a Social Security office.

Other Social Services

Additional social services are available to SSI recipients through their local county welfare departments. These services include:

- adult placement;
- child behavior and development;
- child day care;

- employment services;
- family counseling;
- family planning;
- foster care;
- health-related services;
- home-delivered meals;
- home management;
- institutional care for children;
- protective services for adults and children;
- rehabilitation;
- transportation; and
- information and referral.

For more information on these and other social services, contact your local state welfare office.

SSI Payments

The amounts shown below include both federal and state money. Not all SSI recipients receive the maximum payment amounts. Payments may be lower if you have other income. You can get more information about payment levels and how income affects them from your local office.
